International Journal of Dental Health Concerns: Beginning of Scientific Journey

Amit V. Mahuli
Editor, International Journal of Dental Health Concerns, Department of Public Health Dentistry, NIMS Dental College and Hospital, Jaipur - 303 121, Rajasthan, India. Email: editor.ijdhc@yahoo.com

How to Cite:

Received: 13.02.2015
Accepted: 20.03.2015

Greetings from IJDHC

We are happy to introduce the first issue of our journal (January-April 2015). We thank all authors, reviewers and editorial team members to have believed in us. International Journal of Dental Health Concerns provides platform for researchers to publish their research, share their point of view on important topics. Journal believes in quality research that encourages dentistry as science in terms of clinical practice, education and overall betterment of the profession. In the present issue there are original research, case reports and reviews. We are committed to the quality of the journal by taking necessary measures to check plagiarism, ethical issues, conflict of interest, following guidelines in research and blinded review process. We thank our team of publishers to have supported us with all journal technicalities. We encourage your opinions as letters to editor on published scientific content. We also encourage feedback from authors, reviewers and readers for better quality and efficient functioning of the journal. I would like to conclude with a quote saying “Today knowledge has power, it controls access to opportunity and advancement” (Peter Drucker). Wishing everyone a happy academic journey.

Thank you